Renel Kiriakos is a Greek-born actress who is based in London. Her studies in an American High School in Athens left her bilingual and with a keen ear for accents. Her British roots brought her to the United Kingdom where she has spent the past few years building on her career as an actress.

Performing was always a central part of Renel's upbringing and she even found herself on screen during her first months of life! Throughout her childhood Renel keenly participated in any drama-related activity that she could access and she is blessed to have found her calling defined at such a young age. Coming from a theatrical family only bolstered her determination to continue with the family trade. Her love of performing introduced her to music and to dance and this has complemented her acting skills enormously. Grade 3 Soprano and professional belly dancing and horse riding skills are all strings she's added to her bow.

In Renel's own words "Follow your dream and you will always be the winner." She has always stayed true to this and looks forwards to taking on new roles and seeing her career blossom. Renel is an incredibly versatile actress and has a broad range that will bring a depth to any character she is cast to play. From feature films to short films and commercials, Renel is open to any experience that enables her to do what she born to do, act.
